

Lindsey Kraft is a multi-faceted artist - actress, singer, and composer. You may recognize her from various TV roles including Netflix's Grace and Frankie, HBO's Getting On and most recently Netflix's Obliterated.

She continues as the opening act for Ben Folds, where she'll be performing her brand of theatrical pop songs including songs from her musical, "love, me," a one-woman show workshopped recently in LA for a LIVE album. During an opening performance for Ben at the Kennedy Center in 2023, she received a glowing review by DC Music Review which wrote that the audience "was treated and transfixed by the performance of Lindsey Kraft. Within the first few moments of her piece, concertgoers realized how perfect the pairing was. A burgeoning newcomer to musical performances, Kraft, in addition to her brilliant piano playing and songs, masterfully interacted with and entertained the audience with her witty and sincere songs."

She characterizes her songs as deeply personal, funny, and sad, her sound inspired by Carly Simon, Carole King, Billy Joel, Bette Midler, Randy Newman, and Broadway (but like, only the good shows).

Follow Lindsey on IG: @linzkraft.

Below is a link to the song "beautiful, you"- live opening for Ben Folds in Viroqua, Wisconsin.

<https://soundcloud.com/lindsey-kraft-469349205/beautiful-you-live-opening-for-ben-folds>

Here is the link to her performing the song "Alice" opening for Ben Folds at the Kennedy Center.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=l4Ez-IR1KBg>